

William A. Farris, Senior Specialist on Internet and Commercial Rule of Law

William Farris joined the CECC staff in September 2002 after two years as an attorney at the Hong Kong office of Latham & Watkins, where he specialized in intellectual property licensing and foreign investment in China. Prior to that, Mr. Farris spent two years in Latham & Watkins' San Francisco office where he practiced intellectual property litigation and general commercial law. His publications include: The Future for Telecoms in WTO China, Court Sets Rules For Domain Name Disputes, and The PRC Provides Guidance on Licensing of Value-Added Telecommunications Businesses.

After graduating cum laude in Chinese Studies from Grinnell College, Mr. Farris spent a year studying advanced Chinese at the Inter-University Program for Chinese Studies at National Taiwan University. He received his law degree from Stanford University, where he was a member of the Law Review and a submissions editor for the Stanford Journal for International Law. He speaks Mandarin Chinese.